The women's fellowship!

The deadline for applying for the women's fellowship is Monday, August 10th, 2020. Help us spread the word!

The women's fellowship is a 10-month, cohort-based program for Women of Color who have personally experienced incarceration, immigration detention, and/or the incarceration/detention of a close loved one. It provides Women of Color with the tools they need to engage in strategic discussions and partnerships that shape policy decisions and establish how power is attained and wielded at home, work, and in their communities. The fellowship centers healing as part of a transformative organizing and provides participants with a quarterly stipend.

Below are 4 ways you can help us spread the word about the women's fellowship:

- Share the fellowship application form widely within your organizing and movement-building circles.
- Reach out to a woman of color impacted by incarceration or the criminal justice system and encourage her to apply by Monday, August 10th, 2020. You can read our FAQ for more details.
- Make a nomination and we can follow up!
- Be social. Share the fellowship application form on your social media platforms.

The women's fellowship represents the future of Community Change/Action as it turns its lens to building black and immigrant power, reinventing community organizing, advancing a governing agenda, and creating an electoral powerhouse. Interested candidates should fill out this application form by Monday, August 10th, 2020 and include two letters of support from people (including organizations they are currently affiliated with) who can speak to their organizing and leadership experience.

Questions? Contact Aida Cuadrado Bozzo, Senior Facilitator, Leadership Development, Community Change at acuadrado@communitychange.org or 517-348-6263.

Click here to meet the 2019 Cohort!